

JOIN OUR TEAM

Product Manager

Within Product Management, we are creating room to further professionalize the department and strengthen our growing product portfolio. That's why we are looking for a Product Manager who, together with the other product managers, will guide the development, positioning, and lifecycle of our product groups. You bring structure, clarity, and process discipline in a developing team.

You continuously switch between market insights, technical considerations, sales, and production. You translate customer and user needs into improvements or new product concepts and understand how decisions impact commercial opportunities and customer value.

You don't need to be an experienced product manager. Backgrounds in project management, technical coordination, or similar roles offer a strong foundation. What matters most is that you are curious, willing to take ownership, and motivated to truly understand our products.

You work closely with engineers, safeguard product quality, and ensure our solutions comply with international safety standards. You contribute to process improvements, support Sales with technical inquiries, and represent Prolyte during trainings, trade shows, and user events.

What sets you apart:

You have an affinity with events, stages, concerts, or technology — or you're eager to develop that passion further.

What will you do?

- Providing direction for the further development and lifecycle of the product groups
- Translating market and user needs into new products and improvements
- Initiating, coordinating and overseeing R&D and (re)launch projects
- Analyzing product performance and market developments, and translating these insights into strategy
- Delivering product presentations and training sessions to customers, distributors, and internal teams
- Drafting and safeguarding product specifications, quality requirements, and international safety standards
- Representing Prolyte at international trade shows and user events

What do you bring?

- Bachelor-level mindset; technical affinity is more important than a specific degree
- Decisive, analytical, and able to provide clear direction with commercial awareness
- Strong communicator, curious, and skilled at gathering and connecting information
- Confident in challenging processes and improving ways of working
- Able to read technical drawings and understand their impact on product development
- Fluent in English
- Independent, organized, and able to maintain overview
- Willing to travel internationally
- Affinity with the events, staging, or entertainment industry is a plus

What do we offer:

At Prolyte, you will step into a role with significant responsibility, freedom, and room to make an impact within an international environment. In addition to a competitive salary, we offer:

- Pension scheme via Zwitserleven
- 27 vacation days per year + 7 additional ATV days
- Travel allowance: €0.23 per kilometre
- Opportunities for growth and career development within Prolyte and the international group
- Laptop & phone
- Lease bike
- Sports membership + annual reimbursement for sportswear
- Fresh fruit available daily for everyone
- An informal organization with short communication lines, open feedback, and a high level of autonomy
- Training opportunities and room to further develop yourself within product management

For more information about this position, please contact Herman Boersma at +31683657161 or email us at jobs@prolyte.com